

After graduation, will you head
home or look for a promising career?
What if you could do both?

This is a time in your life where you have lots of options.

What career path is best for me?

Where should I live?

Can I get my career moving and still pursue my dreams?

Deloitte can help you find the answers. Our Global Universities Program (GUP) provides the opportunity for international students from select universities to start their career in their home country or a country of interest where they are eligible to work and are fluent in the local language. You get to launch your career in a place that is already familiar to you, while taking advantage of the opportunities that only a global leader like Deloitte can offer.
